ANTIPYRIN TABLOIDS.

ANTIPYRIN has been justly termed by Germain Sée, the eminent French therapeutist, as the remedy for pain. Prominent among its actions is that of relieving headache. "It prevents as well as cures the attack"—Dr. Kingsbury. The British Medical Journal says. "In Antipyrin we possess a powerful anodyne for pain of nervous and rheumatic origin." From one to three Tabloids is the amount usually required for headaches. Antipyrin Tabloids are supplied by all Chemists in bottles containing 25 and 100. c1

HONGKONG, MAY 5TH, 1891.

From the letter addressed by the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce to the Acting Colonial Secretary it will be seen that the Chamber has lost no time in correcting the statements made by the Governor with reference to the revenue from and expenditure on account of shipping in this harbour. His Excellency stated that besides lighthouses there were other costly services, such as the Harbour Master's establishment, harbour launches, harbour police, and the observatory, involving an expenditure of some $80,000 per annum, maintained for the benefit of shipping, and principally maintained out of the ordinary taxation of the Colony. The letter of the Chamber of Commerce shows that the revenue of the Harbour department, exclusive of light dues, amounts to over $75,000, and if the income from light dues, after deducting cost of upkeep, be added, we get a total of over $100,000. It will therefore be seen that the shipping trade is not only self-supporting but that it contributes a very respectable sum to the general revenue of the Colony. The Committee of the Chamber in their letter confine themselves entirely to financial facts and do not enter on the questions of the inexpediency of imposing any further burdens on shipping or the desirability of constituting a Harbour and Lighthouse Board. As to the former, the danger is so remote that it may perhaps be considered a work of supererogation to combat it in advance. Watchfulness will have to be exercised to keep the Government to its engagement to remit the Gap Rock light dues as soon as the work for which they were imposed is completed, but the idea that the dues instead of being remitted may be increased appears too far-fetched almost to bear discussion. Nevertheless we have the fact before us that the original light dues, which it was understood would be reduced or abolished as soon as the lighthouses were paid for, have been maintained at their full amount up to the present day and that there is little probability of their reduction. If the Gap Rock light dues should be allowed to continue after a sufficient sum has been accumulated to defray the cost of the work, the income would be merged in the general revenue of the Colony, and when another expensive work was required for the convenience of shipping frequenting the port it would again be proposed that the cost should be defrayed by the imposition of additional dues. It is the thin end of the wedge that has to be guarded against. If the control of the harbour and lighthouses were handed over to a duly constituted Board the funds derived from shipping would be employed exclusively for the benefit of shipping, and any works required for the improvement of the port would be executed without cost to the general revenue. The change is desirable both for the improvements to which it would probably lead and for the safeguard it would afford to shipping against the imposition of unnecessary dues. When the finances of the Colony become straightened and the Governor has to look round for ways to make ends meet it is not unnatural that he should cast an eye on the shipping, which, if the principle on which the prosperity of the port has been built up were sacrificed, might be made to yield, for a time at all events, a magnificent revenue. If, however, harbour dues were imposed, or the light dues materially increased, we would scout the idea to see freights to Hongkong quoted largely under those to neighbouring ports, and although the Colony would no doubt remain an important shipping centre a severe check would be imposed on its future progress.

There will be a game of Polo at Causeway Bay at a quarter to five this afternoon.

The Legislative Council will meet at eleven o'clock this morning. The following are the "orders of the day":—

1.—The Honourable P. Ryrie will ask the following question:—
Will the Government state definitely when the new Merchant Shipping Ordinance will be introduced?
2.—Second reading of the Bill entitled "An Ordinance to restrict the loading and unloading of cargo on Sunday in the waters of the Colony."
3.—Third reading of the Bill entitled "The Gambling Ordinance, 1891."

A somewhat noisy procession, including several Chinese bands, which paraded the street of the Central District yesterday, was the funeral procession of the late Mr. Chung Kun Ching, who died on the 2nd inst. The deceased was not a leading Chinese resident, but he was a well-to-do property owner. His principal property, the old Po Lok Theatre, was not originally a very profitable one, but when, some seven years ago, the building was destroyed by fire, Mr. Chung Kun Ching utilised the ground for the erection of a fine block of four-storied tenements, with shops on the ground floor, which have ever since returned handsome interest on the capital and made him a prosperous man.

In the golf competition which finished on Saturday afternoon last, and which we noticed in yesterday's issue, the following ... the six best rounds were:—

Lieut. Gallwey	103 less 18	—90
Capt. Irvine	101 less 12	—83
Lieut. Young	105 less 12	—93
Lieut. Lloyd	99 less 5	—94
Dr. Lowson	99 plus 7	—97

It will be seen that the Army members, besides securing the Cup, made a good showing; it may, however, be mentioned that the Naval men were away cruising. Lieut. Lloyd played an excellent first round, doing it in 41, but a 12-and-an-11 in the second did away with his chances. His 41 was the best single round in the competition.

The March issue of the Friend of China, the organ of the anti-opium agitators, contains the following announcement:—

The Society has now procured a set of slides similar to those used by Mr. Gill in his lectures on the opium trade, which will be lent to clergymen and others desirous of giving lectures, illustrated by the magic lantern, in their own localities. The slides consist of the following series:—
17 coloured slides, entitled "China's Curse," showing the downward progress of an opium-smoker.
2 slides, the Prohibition Pledge and the Appeal to English Christians of the Peking Anti-Opium Society, in Chinese and English.
8 coloured slides showing the different halls in the opium factory at Patna; also the poppy capsule and knives, and portrait of the Viceroy, Li Hung-chang.
1 coloured slide of an opium den in India.

The slides will no doubt prove interesting if not instructive.

In a review by the Spectator of a book by Jacob A. Riis entitled "How the other Half Lives," in which an account of the slums of New York is given, the following paragraph occurs:—"The Chinaman, as a rule, allows his white wife to take her own way in all minor respects except one. He forces her to be scrupulously clean. The following grim instance of Chinese humour is given in the chapter on Chinatown:—'A specimen of celestial logic from the home circle came home to me with a personal application one evening when I attempted, with a policeman, to stop a Chinaman whom we found beating his white wife with a broom-handle in a Mott Street cellar. He was angry at our interference, and declared vehemently that she was bad. "Suppose your wifee bad you no lickee her?" he asked, as if there could be no appeal from such a commonsense proposition as that. My assurance that I did not, that such a thing could not occur to me, struck him dumb with amazement. He eyed me a while in stupid silence, poked the linen in his tub, stole another look, and made up his mind. A gleam of intelligence shone in his eye, and pity and contempt struggled in his voice. "Then, I guess, she lickee you," he said."

The Vancouver Daily News of the 20th March says:—Among the guests now staying at the Hotel Vancouver is Commander A. Marshall, the manager of the Gulon Steamship Company, and the various lines owned by Sir William Pearce, who also owns the Parthia, Abyssinia, and Batavia. As many residents of Vancouver will recollect, Capt. Marshall brought the Abyssinia, the pioneer steamship of this line, into this port nearly four years ago. Since that eventful day in the history of Vancouver, these steamships have continued to ply between this and China and Japan, but now that the first of the new ocean greyhounds that have been built for the C. P. R. will shortly arrive, that company has no longer any need for these vessels. Commander Marshall has accordingly come out here for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the company, as the agreement terminates when the Batavia arrives at Hongkong. Owing to the interval between the first and second of the new vessels, the Parthia has been specially chartered, and will make one more trip to Vancouver. Capt. Marshall has just returned from a trip to Tacoma, where he went for the purpose of endeavouring to arrange with Mr. Prescott, the Vice-President of the Northern Pacific, for the charter of these vessels to ply between Tacoma and China. Mr. Prescott, however, was absent, and he will accordingly forward what information he has obtained to Mr. Richard Barnwell, uncle of Sir William Pearce, who attends to the latter's different lines of steamers. If an arrangement is not made with this company, the steamers will be taken elsewhere. They have all been renewed, the Batavia and Parthia having had new engines put in recently. They would be about two or three days slower than the new C. P. R. steamers, but the working expenses would not be nearly so heavy.

Yesterday afternoon in a house in Hollywood Road, a man while examining a loaded revolver accidentally pulled the trigger, shooting another man in the chest. The injured man was immediately removed to the Hospital, but his condition was judged to be so serious that his depositions were taken later by Mr. Wise.

SUPREME COURT.

4th May.

In Original Jurisdiction.

Before His Honour Sir James Russell, Chief Justice.

Brookes and others v. The China Import Company, Limited.

This was an ex parte motion for an interim injunction to restrain defendants from selling cotton on reels so prepared and put up as to be a colourable imitation of that manufactured by the plaintiffs.

Mr. Francis, Q.C., instructed by Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master was for the plaintiffs.

Mr. Francis said plaintiffs were a well known English firm whose agents here were Messrs. Stolterfoht and Hirst. The application was made on the ground that defendants were making and selling or causing to be imported and sold cotton thread on reels so made up or contrived as to lead the public to believe the thread was that of the manufacture of plaintiffs. The application for an injunction was supported by an affidavit from Mr. C. J. Hirst of Messrs. Stolterfoht and Hirst. In the affidavit it was stated that the firm had carried on business for over thirty years. The registered trade mark, a goat's head, was registered in England, Germany, and other places. Ever since 1883 a description of the thread in question had been made in a particular kind of box with a flyleaf inside on which was some Chinese writing. The defendants were selling boxes of cotton so made up as to bear a strong resemblance to that of plaintiffs and were now booking orders for such cotton. This cotton was being sold at a cheaper rate than that sold by plaintiffs and consequently was depreciating the market for Brookes' cotton.

His Lordship said the only thing he would wish to point out was that though there was a great similarity between the boxes, there was a difference in the colour of the label, the one being red, the other blue.

Mr. Francis—That is so, my lord, but we submit that the imitation is such that a person carelessly looking at the two boxes would scarcely notice the difference between them. Their trade mark is a stag's head. Now our head, my lord, is a goat's head (laughter), but the flyleaf, the translation thereon, and the whole appearance is such that in the market people could scarcely distinguish between them.

His lordship said there was a similar case by the same applicants some little time ago, the only difference being that on that occasion there was no question as to the colour.

Mr. Francis said they had every reason to believe it was the same firm that was sending out this cotton as before.

His lordship gave an order for the granting of the application.

THE UNOFFICIAL MEMBERS AND THE GOVERNOR.

The following letter, addressed by the Hon. P. Ryrie, Hon. Ho Kai, and Hon. T. H. Whitehead to the Governor, has been forwarded by them for publication:—

Hongkong, 4th May, 1891.

His Excellency, the Governor, Sir G. W. Des Vœux, K.C.M.G.

Sir,—With reference to our letter dated the 23th April, and to your Excellency's comments thereon, we beg to express our most sincere regret that anything which it contains should have caused you any pain or annoyance. We regret further that you should have interpreted certain passages as disrespectful and as calculated to cast any imputations.

Permit us to earnestly assure you that our letter was not so intended, and with every respect due to your Excellency we are still of the opinion that the inferences drawn by you are scarcely deducible from our language, and we submit that our letter should not bear the interpretation put upon it by your Excellency.

There was nothing further from our thoughts than to be in any way disrespectful or in the least degree [illegible] emphatically disclaim and absolutely disavow any such intention. Our sole object was to protest the interests of the ratepayers of Hongkong.

Your Excellency having taken exception to several of our expressions we beg to ask you to consider them in the sense you have read them as being withdrawn from our letter.—We have the honour to be, Sir, your Excellency's most obedient humble servants,

(Signed) P. Ryrie,
Ho Kai,
T. H. Whitehead.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND REVENUE FROM SHIPPING.

The following letter, addressed by the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce to the Acting Colonial Secretary, has been forwarded to us for publication:—

Hongkong, 2nd May, 1891.

Sir,—With reference to His Excellency the Governor's written speech published in the local papers of yesterday, in which His Excellency is reported as follows:—"But, as regards, the alleged surplus revenue from lights, it seems to be forgotten that besides Lighthouses there are other costly services, such as the Harbour Master's establishment, Harbour launches, Harbour police, and the Observatory, involving an aggregate expenditure of some $80,000 per annum, which are maintained for the benefit of shipping, and which are principally maintained out of the ordinary taxation of the colony"—I am directed by my committee to call attention to the following figures, which are taken from the Government Gazette of the 11th April last. The disbursements specified by His Excellency appear there to be as follows:—

Harbour Master	$50,766.67
Observatory	15,000.94
	$65,767.61

The Observatory expenditure shows an increase of $7,216.06 on the previous year, over 50 per cent., and though classed by His Excellency as maintained for the benefit of shipping, may fairly be charged to the inhabitants of the colony, as regards some portion; while, so far, the benefits derived by shipping from the establishment may be very humbly estimated.

The difference between His Excellency's estimates of "some $80,000" and the above amount perhaps arises from the "harbour launches" expenditure, if it is not included in the "harbour establishment," not being specifically stated in the Gazette, and the "harbour police," which doubtless is merged in the general police expenditure of the colony. If you will kindly refer to the revenues derived by the Harbour Master's Department, taken from the same Gazette, the following will be found:—

Emigration brokers	$ 1,400.00
Junk licences	22,397.75
Registry of boats	4,631.50
Registry of cargo boats	9,272.50
Cargo boat certificates	1,192.50
Shipping seamen	10,330.00
Examination of masters	2,135.00
Survey of steamers	9,060 87
Registry fees	278.00
Medical Fees, Emigrants	13,096.75
Licences, steam launches	422.50
Survey certificates, launches	995.00
Licences, Chinese passenger ships	335.00
Bills of Health	2,187.00
	$75,234.87

From this it appears to my committee that that expenditure mentioned by His Excellency is not "principally maintained out of the ordinary taxation of the colony."

In instituting these comparative figures, some further items of expenditure, such as the salary of the Government Health Officer, say $2,000 per annum, are applicable to these receipts, and may be added to His Excellency's total of $80,000.

Still sufficient remains to show that shipping, judging from these selected items, is self-supporting. For the Harbour Master's Department is used in other ways for the general purposes of the colony, outside of shipping; while if the light dues and their upkeep be added to the totals on their respective sides of the account, say "expenditure $5,272.33 receipts $31,898.46" taking for the latter item the twelve months of 1889, which embraces the normal collection before the increase sanctioned last year), shipping not only fully disburses the cost of all special services incurred for its purposes, but contributes a very handsome fund to the general revenues of the colony.

I am to add that my committee think no time should be lost in correcting, what appears to them to be, misleading statements, if the figures here quoted represent all items of public receipts and expenditure connected with the shipping of the colony, otherwise a very false impression may be generally formed if the matter is allowed to go forth as it is, uncontradicted.—I have the honour to be, sir, your most obedient servant,

(Sd.) F. Henderson,
Secretary.

The Honourable W. M. Deane, M.A., C.M.G., Acting Colonial Secretary.

HONGKONG RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

A competition took place on Saturday last for the "Faki" cup, presented by Dr. J. W. Noble. This prize, which has been competed for monthly since 1889, was on this occasion won outright by P.C. D. McClennan, with a score of 52, less 7 points penalised, leaving a net score of 45. Sergeant W. Robertson, R.K.P., made 44, and Mr. E. Robinson 43. There were 10 competitors. The conditions of the shoot were: 7 shots standing at 200 yards and 7 shots kneeling or sitting at 300 yards; the winner of the cup to be penalised 5 points for his first and an additional 2 points for the second win; three wins required to take the cup outright. At the conclusion of the shooting, cheers were given for the donor of the cup, who happened to be present, and for the winner. The following gentlemen have won the cup twice:—Messrs. Carlyle, McNab, Ladds, Robinson, Watson, and Collins. The following have won the cup once:—Messrs. Braidwood, Woodin, Merson, Yee. Carson and Martin.

HONGKONG SANITARY BOARD.

The Sanitary Board met yesterday afternoon. There were present:—Hon. S. Brown, President; Hon. J. H. Stewart-Lockhart, Registrar-General; Dr. Ayres, Colonial Surgeon; Mr. Geo. Herspool, Acting Captain Superintendent of Police; Mr. Wong Shing, Hon. Ho Kai, Mr. A. J. Ede, Mr. H. McCallum, Secretary.

COLONIAL VETERINARY SURGEON'S REPORT.

The Report of the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon's for 1891 was laid on the table. With regard to the markets the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon reported that the principal markets are inspected twice or three times a day by himself or the Inspector of Markets and he desired to mention that great credit was due to Mr. Eze, the Inspector, for the manner in which he carries out his duties. The markets situated beyond the limits of the city are inspected two or three times a week. During the three months under review there have been 86 prosecutions at the Police Court for breaches of the market regulations. With regard to slaughter houses the figures for the daily average of animals slaughtered at the different slaughter houses are cattle 42, sheep 27, swine 324. No animals are allowed to be taken to the slaughter house except those bearing the official mark showing that they have been inspected and are fit for slaughtering for human food. With reference to the question of hawkers, the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon remarks that in the Western district the frequently complained of obstruction caused by hawkers has practically disappeared, but unfortunately the same is not the case in the Central District. He recommends that a hawker's licence should be liable to endorsement by a police officer if the holder thereof was found causing an obstruction.

There was a minute on the report by Mr. Ede to the effect that if by "police officer" was meant any constable he was not in favour of the endorsement of licences as suggested by the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon.

SANITARY SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT FOR APRIL.

The Sanitary Superintendent's Report for April was laid on the table. The report stated that twelve cases of small-pox were reported during the month, making a total of thirty-five cases since the 1st January. Of this number fourteen have died. In view of the large number of deaths to cases reported and making due allowance for the manner in which the patients are treated in the Tung Wa Hospital, the Superintendent is of opinion that the by-laws providing for the compulsory reporting of small-pox are frequently [illegible] the posting of notices calling attention to the penalties attached to the breach of the by-laws, he had in every case made enquiries with a view of ascertaining whether the person looking after the case reported it as soon as the nature of the disease became known, and he was inclined to think that in the majority of cases it was only when the nature of the disease could no longer be hidden that the notification takes place. He therefore recommended that in the next case where there were good grounds for believing that such was the case a prosecution should be instituted with a view of bringing home to householders that cases of small-pox occurring in their houses must be promptly reported.

THE PROPOSED VACCINE INSTITUTE.

The following report with reference to this subject was laid on the table:—

The Committee appointed on the 2nd instant to consider the question of a site for the proposed Vaccine Institute, recommend that it be erected on the triangular corner of land bounded on the south by the Kennedy Road, on the east by a new Masonry Nullah, on the west and north by the Albany Nullah. (See tracing attached).

I am sorry I cannot concur in the report. The site seems to be wanting in every one of the conditions indicated by Mr. Ladds, except No. 5, and the position next to St. Joseph's Church is on general grounds most objectionable. Every item in Mr. Wotton's letter applies with equal or greater force to the site chosen. I shall oppose, and I am sure the Roman Catholics and the Military Authorities will do so likewise.

(Signed) J. J. Francis.

The Registrar-General said with reference to Mr. Francis's rider he saw that Mr. Ladds was present, and he should like to ask him whether the site selected by the committee was one which failed to fulfil all the conditions recommended by him. There were three sites recommended by Mr. Ladds and this was one of the three.

The Colonial Veterinary Surgeon—I think this site would do fairly well. It is not as good as one of the others but I think it is fairly suitable.

The Registrar-General—You mean that it is second best?

The Colonial Veterinary Surgeon—Yes.

The Registrar-General—Are the conditions mentioned by you as necessary for such a building present on this site?

The Colonial Veterinary Surgeon—I think they are.

The Registrar-General—As a man who is experienced in these matters do you think that an establishment of this kind will be a nuisance to the houses near it?

The Colonial Veterinary Surgeon—Certainly not. The objections raised by Mr. Wotton in his letter cannot hold water for a moment.

The Registrar-General—In view of what Mr. Ladds, who has experience of these matters, has said, and in view of the report of the committee, I beg to move that their report be adopted by us and be forwarded to Government with our recommendation.

Mr. Ede—Is there any nuisance likely to be caused by this place? For instance, the lowing of cattle?

The Colonial Surgeon—I think not. Of course a calf might low if it were hungry. (Laughter).

Mr. Ede seconded the motion of the Registrar-General.

Carried unanimously.

The Board then adjourned till the 18th inst.

MR. FRANCIS AND THE MILITARY CONTRIBUTION PAYMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

Dear Sir,—Referring to your leader of to-day, permit to say that I am not primarily responsible for the heading to my letter in the China Mail of Friday evening. I did not invent it, nor did I put any heading to my letter. I am only responsible in so far as having seen it, I did not feel at liberty to object to it. Neither are you responsible, as I presume the slip was sent you from the China Mail office with the head line prefixed.

I think you are a little unjust to me in saying that I have laboured to place the Governor's conduct in the worst possible light. I have endeavoured to place the facts of the case in the clearest and strongest possible light and to indicate my opinion of the result of these facts in the plainest possible terms, but I impute no motives. I do not say and I do not think that His Excellency did this thing deliberately and for the purpose of insulting or befooling the Legislative Council. He never thought of the possible consequences of the concealment when he sanctioned it originally, if he did sanction it. The Governor had no intention, formed intention, of treating the members of Council with disrespect or exposing them to ridicule. He drifted into it and it was too late to correct the mistake when its true bearings were discovered. You admit it to be a mistake and a very grave mistake. I have said no more and mean no more, but it is a mistake that ought to be openly confessed and honestly atoned for—not the mistake of paying the money; that was within the Governor's powers if he thought it right to exercise them—but the concealment, the debates on what was beyond recall, the motions and amendments. I doubt if the explanation you suggest is the correct one. It seems to me the whole affair was a blunder, that no one foresaw the consequences. We all do many things without full consideration of what they may possibly lead to or of how other eyes than our own may view them.

May I beg of you to give insertion to this letter in your issue of to-morrow?—Yours very faithfully,

JNO. J. FRANCIS.

THE SUNDAY LABOUR BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

Sir,—A meeting of the Legislative Council has been summoned for to-morrow forenoon at 11 o'clock. I cannot possibly attend as it is mail day. The second reading of the Bill entitled "An Ordinance to restrict the loading and unloading of cargo on Sunday in the waters of the Colony" is in the orders of the day. I should like to be present to oppose the Bill in its present form, or at least to endeavour to secure certain amendments to it, but as that is impossible I beg to send you for publication certain criticisms. His Excellency the Governor has stated that for all practical purposes I might just as well send my remarks to the newspapers as deliver them in Council and that the same effect can thus be produced.

Is this Bill introduced under instructions from the Secretary of State for the Colonies? If so it is almost useless to oppose it or to offer any comments adverse to its passing, though perhaps the following suggestions might be made.

It is one-sided and directed to exclude from its operations all native craft, which on short voyages to southern ports can compete successfully against Foreign-built vessels.

Has consideration been given to the food supply of the colony, which is largely imported? The river steamers leaving Canton on Saturday evening which arrive in Hongkong on Sunday morning bring large supplies both for the European and native colonists. Is this perishable cargo to be allowed to rot, particularly in the hot weather, on board the steamers, or are the vessels to refuse its carriage on the Saturday evening departures from Canton, so throwing the colonists' food wants on the stale supplies of previous importations?

Many time charters are in existence based on the old order of things. To reduce the charterers' ability to work in this harbour by a maximum of nearly 15 per cent. during the remaining currency of their charters would inflict a hardship on all who have such contracts pending. For, if they had been aware that this Ordinance was contemplated, they could have provided for a lessened payment to the shipowner in the event of such legislation becoming operative during the term of their charters. Under such circumstances is it not equitable that the Ordinance should not take effect till six months from the date of its passing?

Why should work in the harbour be signalled out and not that on shore? Is it not "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel"?—Yours very truly,

T. H. WHITEHEAD.

Hongkong, 4th May, 1891.

THE HONGAY MINES.

The following is the report of Mr. Durand, the manager of the mines, which was laid on the table at the recent meeting of the Société Française des Charbonnages du Tonkin:—

The work undertaken during the past year, like that of the preceding years, had for its object the reconnoitring and working of the concessions, in view of a methodical, regular, and largely developed exploitation and the installation of the necessary plant for the transport and shipping of the output. Though up to the present time it has only been possible to explore a very insignificant portion of the territory comprised in the concession, yet the mineral wealth met with in so considerable that, for fear of seeing them prove insufficient after a very brief interval, it has been necessary to attach an importance to these works which perhaps was not foreseen at the commencement of operations. This fact explains the delay in inaugurating the period of production properly so called. We are nevertheless perfectly ready to attain to this point. In the course of the present year we shall begin to extract coal from the Nagotna mine and take it by railway to Hongay. During the first months of next year the great wharf and the Haton railway will be finished, and we shall then be able to consider the period of preliminary installations as ended, and production will develop itself freely. The operations of the present year may then be under classed two categories: (1.) Arrangements for working at the mines. (2.) Daily operations with a view to transport, shipping, and sale.

OPERATIONS AT THE MINES.

The explorations made during the preceding years shewed that in the district actually surveyed it was most easy to rapidly organise regular and profitable working about the centres of Nagotna and Haton. Our operations therefore have been principally concentrated on these points.

NAGOTNA.

A dozen seams of coal have been discovered at Nagotna, which may be divided into two lots separated from one another by a sterile interval of about 250 metres measured horizontally. The upper lot comprises four or five seams, the actual thickness of the coal being 10 metres. Unfortunately these seams have been slightly faulted and are somewhat irregular in formation; they crop out on the hills at hardly 20 metres above sea-level, and the coal given by the exploratory galleries remained small, earthy and difficult of use. These operations were therefore stopped. There is, however, no reason to be immoderately astonished at this lack of success, when we consider the power of the decomposing influence of the atmospheric agencies on the climate of Tonkin.—When we see sandstone and conglomerates completely disintegrated and turned into more or less coarse sand; when we see this decomposition going on to several metres' depth below the surface, we can very well understand how coal and schists, which are very far from offering the same degree of resistance, have had to submit to considerable alterations which have entirely modified their nature, and especially their exterior qualities, their hardness, cohesion, &c. If may even be said that it is the contrary to this that would have been surprising. From among the coal basins in France it would be easy to cite a number of beds which furnish coal of the first quality, but whose actual appearance is only that of a blackish earth, where it requires a practised eye to discover coal. Everything, then, leads us to believe that at a certain depth, even at a moderate depth, when those portions are attacked which have been guarded from atmospheric influences by a sufficient overburden, we shall obtain a combustible of excellent quality, analogous to that furnished by the other beds. These portions can only be reached by shafts, whose position we are studying at the present moment and the sinking of which will shortly be begun. The lower lot comprises 7 beds, seams with an aggregate thickness of 20 metres of coal. Operations have been exclusively concentrated on the three upper seams, which appeared at first sight to possess the most advantages. Taking them in descending order these three seams are those named Bavier-Chauffour, Chater, and Marmottan.

BAVIER-CHAUFFOUR SEAM.

This seam has a thickness varying from 5 to 6 metres and gives a black, brilliant coal, which is hard at certain points, though it affords less resistance at others; it is, however, always very pure. In this seam there is no regular schistose interruption, the schists met with presenting themselves rather under the form of slabs or shales, more or less important, but possessing no continuity. The operations up to the present time consist of two drivages united at sundry intervals by rises for ventilation. The lower gallery, called the "galerie de roulage," has been driven 8.0½ metres above sea level, at the bottom of a little valley parallel with Hongay bay. As our railway has been opened up along the length of the bay, one metre above sea level, and is available for this locality, it has been easy by means of an inconsiderable cutting to open out upon the railway at such a height that the little trucks can leave the mine and empty themselves directly into the large waggons. The upper gallery is 13.86 metres above sea level, and above it is a bed of 10 metres' thickness of workable coal. This bed, added to that comprised between the two galleries, gives a tonnage of 40,000 tons immediately available. These two galleries continue to run parallel with one another in the seam. The length of each is increased by 25 metres every month. At the actual moment the Bavier-Chauffour has been explored to a length of 380 metres. We are therefore well posted as to its character, and the thickness and quality of its coal.

CHATER SEAM.

The Chater seam is situated at a distance, taken horizontally, of 82 metres from the wall of the Bavier-Chauffour seam; and is 7 metres in thickness in pure, solid, and brilliant coal. Like the other, this seam contains no regular schistose interruption. There also two parallel galleries have been driven jointed at intervals by risses for ventilation. The lower gallery driven at the level of the rails of the great railway is 220 metres in length—the upper, 8.75m. above, 260 metres. The bed of coal opened up by these two galleries and ready for immediate delivery may be estimated at 60,000 tons. At certain points these two galleries have met faulted portions, where the coal is small and friable. These portions should be removed like the rest to avoid the risk of heating and even of fire, which might be produced by the stripping of the neighbouring portions. They will only, however, give a mediocre output, which should be consumed on the spot by those who are engaged in opening up the mine. These irregular portions, which are invariably met with in all workings, only form a slight proportion of the coal bed available, and we only mention them to have the fact on record. Besides the two galleries already mentioned, an attack has been made by an exploratory gallery advancing into virgin ground. If the length of this gallery is added to that of the others, a total development of 650 metres in length is obtained, which, as may easily be seen, constitutes an exploration of the highest value from the point of view of the future.

MARMOTTAN SEAM.

The Marmottan seam is situated 64 metres from the wall of the Chater seam, and is 2 metres in thickness. The coal is hard, solid, brilliant, and free from impurities. Before the Bavier-Chauffour seam was discovered this was the hardest that had been met with, and so it was here that operations had been most developed. The lower gallery, the "transport" one, has pierced into the valley of the Nagotna stream after a run of 200 metres. As this gallery left above it a bed of marketable coal 20 metres in height, two working levels were driven in this, while at the same time it was attacked by two inclined galleries in order to discover the depth of the seam. One of these inclines is now 50 metres in length and at its end is 17 metres below sea level. The seam is regular, and the infiltration of water is insignificant. This working is very easily kept dry by a hand pump. A parallel gallery to the gallery "de roulage" had been driven at 15 metres, cutting a bed of 40 metres in thickness, which will be reserved as a block for protection against the surface water. The bed of coal available in this seam and immediately utilizable is 10,000 tons. It is in the Marmottan seam that we are going to organise an exploration on a large scale by means of a steam winding engine outside the mine. All the necessary piercings for this installation have been made, the engine and the boiler are ready for immediate work, the erection of the motor will take place in a few days. As soon as the principal incline shall have arrived at the level of the first connection of the shaft in preparation, an attack will be made by two cross-cut galleries, one in the roof leading towards the shaft, the other in the wall towards the lower seams; this will allow us to reduce by half the time necessary to connect these seams at the orifice of extraction, and will advance proportionately the epoch of their being put into working.

OTHER SEAMS.

There are no operations properly so called in progress in the seams situated below the Marmottan seam. We have contented ourselves with examining their thickness and the quality of their coal by some explorations of small length. Besides, the formation of the soil lent itself but little to more important operations, and it will certainly be easier, less expensive and far more interesting to explore these seams by a cross cut in depth, than to undertake from the surface, the digging of galleries which would not have been of any use for future exploration, and which might have been a hindrance. These seams are regularly distributed in regard to the wall of the Marmottan seam at horizontal distances varying from 70 to 80 metres; their dip like that of the whole system is about 25 degs, their thickness varies from 0.60 metres to 3.50. To sum up it may be seen that the group of seams of the Nagotna mine gives a total thickness of about 30 metres of coal. The galleries made in the Bavier-Chauffour, Chater, and Marmottan seams form a network having a length of 2,290 metres. To give an idea of the rapidity of the advance we have to state that of this length 2,000 metres have been pierced during the last seven months. With a selected plant, suitably directed, and working at two stations, an advance of 25 to 30 metres per month will be made in galleries five metres square. Though this sum total of operations may not be sufficient to allow us to estimate with a rigorous exactness the wealth of this group, yet it does permit us to form an idea of the resources which it will be able to furnish. The group is explored for about 700 metres by continuous galleries, it is followed up by well defined outcrops in the Nagotna brooks, it is found again in the eastern valley "de l'Œuf"; it is therefore marked out to a certain extent over a space of about 3 kilometres long. By underground operations we are assured that the seams are regular in formation and thickness. Their direction, which is N.W.-S.-E. in Hongay bay, gradually bends till it becomes N.S. in the Nagotna brook. If this formation is maintained, all this system rests on the limestone which forms the base of the basin in the bay of Fai-tsi-long and the development in length does not exceed 3 kilometers. This is the most unfavourable view, but even in this case, since it is certain, from the formation of the seams of the upper group, that the lower group descends to a superior depth of 200 metres, which gives a burden of upwards of 500 metres, even in this case, we say, the total available tonnage should exceed 40 million tons. If before reaching the limestone the seams bend to take again their primitive direction of N.W.-S.E. and take a direction towards Haton, where we find this same direction again, these figures might be doubled and tripled. On the other hand, if it be remarked that this amount of 40 million tons only applies to a surface of 300 hectares (the concession comprises more than 15,000), it will be seen that we have not in any way exaggerated at the start in saying that the wealth met with was considerable and surpassed all anticipation. Certainly this district of 600 hectares cannot be exempt from accidents, but we do not think that those which the future may bring will be of a nature to sensibly diminish our estimates. In any case those which we have met up to the present time confine themselves to simple narrowings of the seam and to unimportant faults. In the neighbourhood of these narrowings or faults, as we have already said, the coal becomes poor and friable, and the mining no longer gives large pieces. This might, at the start, depreciate the market value of the coal, but later on, when the production has attained to a serious importance, the difference which these faulted portions will make in the daily output will be insignificant, and the quality of the coal will remain identical. Besides, these smalls will always form a combustible which is utilizable provided proper knowledge is brought to bear on it whether in mixing them or otherwise.

KESTREL SHAFT.

The hills on which the Nagotna seams outcrop have only a small altitude, hence it follows that the portions which it will be possible to avail ourselves of by means of level "daylight" galle as it is produced. As the sea at low tide leaves bare a large expanse both in Hongay and Faitsi-long bays, it is useless to contemplate carrying the coal by water to Hongay, where is the port of embarkation. The construction of a railway has therefore been decided on, and in order to be prepared for any possible eventualities, a gauge of 1 metre has been adopted. The rails are steel and weigh 22 kilos per metre. The sleepers, which are of cast steel, are of the type adopted for the Indian railways. The locomotives weigh 25 tons when ready for work and drag waggons carrying a net weight of 8 tons. The proposed line leaves Hongay and follows the sea shore to the Valley de l'Œuf. At this point the line divides, one part entering the Valley de l'Œuf and coming out at Nagotna, the other continues to follow the coast to Hatou. The first, Nagotna branch, has a length of 3,750 metres. The track is laid 120m. (four feet) above the highest tides. The gradients and declivities, which are rare enough, never exceed 10 millimetres per metre. The radius of the curves is never less than 100 metres. This first branch is in course of execution, and will be finished in July next. The track to Hatou will be commenced immediately and will be executed under the same conditions as the Nagotna one. Like the latter it wants no elaborate work and will be finished at the end of the present year or at latest in the first months of next year.

SIFTING WORKSHOPS.

On arrival from the mine all the coal will be taken to the sifting and screening workshops. This operation might be done at the mines, but then we should want as many workshops as centres of production. We have preferred a central one at Hongay for the sake of the economy which results therefrom for the installation, the actual working, and the facility which the neighbourhood of the workshop wants for repairs, and the possibility of being able to mix the produce of the different seams if such a course becomes necessary. The shop will at present contain three sieves (two in actual work and one spare one for repairs) which can get through 500 tons each per day; their number can be increased when the need is felt. Each sieve is formed of a sheet of iron pierced with holes 20m. in diameter; they give 150 strokes a minute with a full oscillation of 0.15 m. On leaving the sifting houses the coal is received into sail cloths on which the screening is done. These cloths pour their contents into a hopper divided into two compartments, which by means of a valve, allows either the mixing of all that comes whether large or small, or the separation of the two qualities in different waggons.

STOCK PLATFORMS.

After screening the coals will either be sent to the wharf, to be loaded on the ships, or put in stock when there is no ship on the berth. For the stock we have provided for two platforms. One of timber will be capable of carrying 1,500 tons, and will be placed opposite the wharf at 50m. from the ships. The other made of earth is more than a hectare in area and can above contain more than 20,000 tons; it will be placed near the sifting house. To supply the first platform we shall prolong the upper line of the sifting house (the line that brings the coal in gross from the mines) situated 7m. above the line of the quay, to just above the platform. The coal will be lowered to the level of the planks by an hydraulic crane. For removal the loading waggons will come beneath the platform and will be filled through traps of a sufficient number to allow of 1,500 tons being loaded in a day. This platform being constantly kept full, it will be always possible with a day's output to load a boat of about 2,000 tons in 12 hours. The earthen platform situated by the sifting house will be about 2m. above the line of the quay. It will be supplied by a special line coming from the sifting house and emptied by means of small trucks discharging themselves directly into large waggons.

WHARF.

The completed wharf has the shape of an irregular T of which the larger cross piece, which is parallel to the sea shore, constitutes the wharf properly so called, while the smaller is the approach which connects it with the shore. The wharf is 85 metres long in space where ships can lie alongside, and 16m. broad. At its base it will have a depth of water of 6.30m. (21 feet) at low tide. It is composed of 234 piles from 0.40 to 0.50 square. The approach is 22 metres long and 11m. broad. It is built of 24 piles 0.40 square, which are now actually in place. All the necessary timber for the construction of the approach has been provided for at Hongay and this part of the wharf will soon be finished. The necessary timber for the wharf properly so called has been ordered, and there will be no delay in getting it ready for work.

LOADING ARRANGEMENTS.

We have adopted for the loading of the coal into the holds of vessels the arrangements employed in the great English ports, especially Cardiff. The coal, whether it has been loaded at the screening house or on the stock platform, is brought in moveable boxes holding 4 tons carried on waggons. Each waggon carries two boxes. Arrived at the wharf, hydraulic cranes with a lifting power of 5 tons and a radius of 10m. seize the boxes and lower them into the ship's hatches. Our plant comprises two cranes, each of which is capable of loading 1,500 tons in 10 hours' work.

WORKSHOP FOR REPAIRS.

A large workshop for repairs has been installed at Hongay. It is made of corrugated iron and covers a surface of 750 sq. m.; it contains the necessary machines for working in iron and wood, which are driven by a steam motor. Thus we can do all our repairs on the spot and construct all materials that do not require founding. This workshop has been working for some months and begins to be of the greatest service to us.

DWELLING HOUSES.

The organisation of all these operations, the execution of all these works whether at Hongay or at the mines, has compelled the Société to gather together a large European staff who have to be lodged. Ten dwelling houses capable of containing 4 or 6 people have been erected. Two bungalows in brick and wood for the Engineer and the heads of departments have been built at Hongay. Finally, a club restaurant which is on the point of completion will soon allow us to give all our employés, while enabling them to live cheaply, a centre of reunion where the management, ever careful of the welfare of its staff, has united the useful and the agreeable.

SAIGON.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

25th April.

A telegram in the Journal Officiel of 23rd instant confirms the nomination of M. de Lanessan to the post of Governor-General of Indo-China.

This nomination, following so close after the departure of M. Piquet on leave of absence, has relieved the public mind from suspense and the friends of M. Piquet find nothing to say in defence of the late Governor-General in the pages of the bi-weekly paper.

Although it is premature to express an opinion about the choice of the new Governor-General, it is not difficult to predict what will be the policy of M. de Lanessan, after perusing his work "L'Expansion Coloniale."

The Saigonnais only hope their local Press will soon decide to put aside all personal disputes and join with their independent colleagues of Tonkin to make the new Governor-General acquainted with all the past history of Cochin-China; otherwise he will be left in entire ignorance of the truth by the enlightened advisers that surround him, and unless the French Press of Indo-China decide to speak the plain truth a Governor-General may come out with the best will to do good but all his efforts may be frustated by official misrepresentation.

It is to be hoped that the present Lieutenant-Governor will not be re-called, as with M. Danel M. de Lanessan will be sure of one able assistant, who will remove him of anxiety as far as Cochin-China is concerned.

The Barteorologic Institution is at work at Saigon and there are already three children from Singapore under treatment, and one of your chemists will soon be supplied with the vaccine. The Institution's arrangements are now complete, but will be so by the end of this month. Dr. Calmette is full of hopes about the success of the Institute, and all persons coming out to his treatment are sure to find able assistance and careful attention.

NOW ON SALE.
IMPERIAL QUARTO.
ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY.
WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.
An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.
For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.
To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration—Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.
For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.
It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price $20.
A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.
